Perry worked as a finishing carpenter for 25 years, retiring in 1982. He also enjoyed farming. Perry was one of a kind and very talented, he actually published three books. He will be missed by family and friends for his quick wit and charm.

Survivors include his nephews and nieces, Nick (Kay) Terry, Ned (Sandra) Cisco, Mark (Donna) Cisco, John “Bill” (Patricia) Cisco, Dixie (Terry) Buter, Connie Lord and Amy Cisco; and many great nieces and nephews, including his great niece, Shelley Judkins, who was Perry’s special care taker.

He was preceded in death by his son, Daniel; his siblings, Juanita Terry, John Cisco, Henry Cisco and nephews, Robert and Jim Cisco.

Perry’s family would like to say a special thank you to Sheila Ault, Dorothy Thompson and the Hospice of Lenawee Staff, the Department on Aging Staff, the Staff at Promedica Provincial House and Pat and Mike Anderson for the years of care provided to Perry. “ I remember visiting Perry & Mary & They asked me if I've ever heard someone play the bones. I said nope & that I've never heard of the bones. So Perry pulls out these strange sticks & puts some music on & just started to jam with the music as he played that beautiful sound that came out of the bones. As he played Mary was dancing to the music. It was the most amazing sound I've ever heard. I never expected to be given such a special gift on that visit & I've never forgotten it nor ever will. Thank you Mr. Bones.
