“ The one word that is used the most to describe my mom was "cool." We were known as having the coolest mom around. She loved music, and dancing and always had WIOT cranked up when I was young to give her a boost while she did the house work.

One of my favorite memories has always been the time I first brought my newborn son to see her. We didn't know it at the time but he was ill and since I was a first time mom, I thought I was doing something wrong because I could never make him smile. My mom had always been great with babies, and held him for no more than two minutes before he produced his very first smile.
