“ To the family of Mr. Kindinger, my heart breaks for you. I was a carrier for the Daily Telegram for 6 years during the 90s (my mom and brother for 10 years). David would oftentimes be outside, I'd hand him his paper, and he'd strike up a conversation with this talkative teenager. He would tell me about his family and his experience being a war veteran. He also shared his stories of travel into the wilderness and even shared a book with me on the subject. I cherished our talks, as I cherished the talks with many of the friends I made on Scott, Michigan, College, and McKenzie Streets way back then. I now live in Chicago, am in my 30s, and wish I had kept in touch with David and others. It's amazing how a little kindness so long ago can leave an imprint on someone's heart, especially a child of a single-mother household. Mr. Kindinger was like an adopted grandpa figure; inspirational, witty, and honest. The world was lucky to have him.
