Our beloved brother-in-law, Jack:

Although we are filled with profound sorrow and our hearts are heavy with grief, we can take some comfort in knowing that you are now truly joyful and content in His presence – in the loving light of our ever-living God - surrounded by all our loved ones - family and friends - who preceded you.

I, David, shall always be thankful for, and fondly remember, how much positive influence you had on my life. You were more like an older brother than a brother-in-law – whose goodness was ever present, and whose caring advice, throughout the time of my early youth, was freely shared.

May all of us, family and friends who have survived you, be comforted by one another, and find peace and eventual tranquility, as we work through our grief.

Bill and I shall miss you and always remember you, until the day that we join you, celebrate our reunion, and take refuge with you in the God's loving embrace.

*Love always,
David and Bill*
