I'm a friend that meet him through something he liked doing after work and photos he done. I meet him on discord and joined him playing a game. Through this I had became close to him more than I realized. I'm a veteran and combat veteran. Talking to him knowing him little by little he had a way that captivated you and draw you in more and more. This guy this friend this man that I consider him as a brother. Just simply amazing humanbeing. He basically helped me in ways of combating my battles I have been holding inside. An through all of this time I didn't realize how much of an impact he had. When I found out I was blown away. Couldn't believe it. I was deeply sadden didnt know why. My wife explained to me why I grew a bond with him didn't know u had. I know it's been. A long time since. I know this is late. But I wanted to let you all know from me and my family we send out deepest condolences to you. My name is Eric Strauss aka IronMike1775SGT (XBOX) friend and from Bullet Catcher Gaming community. Sorry it's still hard for me to openly share. Thank you for allowing us to know a great man that became my friend to being my brother. Rip brother I miss ya

“ My condolences to the Stites family and friends.

Jeromy was a co-worker and friend outside of work. I took an immediate liking to Jeromy after I heard him make a joke at work and I found myself laughing out loud. He had a unique sense of humor. He was a lighthearted and friendly guy, even though he looked intimidating. We became better acquainted on-line playing Xbox video games. Jeromy had come over to my home to help me build my first super computer for music recording. I know I thanked you over and over J - for showing me how to build my PC, the Beast II (he had the Beast 1 PC) lol, but thank you one more time for being my friend.

May you find peace.

“ I worked closely with Jeromy at Synel-Americas, both of us being from Michigan we bonded immediately. He was a good friend, great programmer and had mad skills. We spent many nights on the phone working together, trying to resolve issues or upgrade systems. He had a quick wit. He was caring and generous with his time. He was always willing to help out team members. Over the years we spent a lot of time together. I hope his dog is ok. I know how much he loved that dog. When he moved away I took his ex-wife cat. It became a gift to my inlaws. I was so happy when he moved back to Arizona. He frequently showed me his art and told me about his weekend exploits in the desert taking pics. I will Miss him.
