“ *Louie built our first home on Driggs Road, and we were so pleased with his perfectionism. However, one day when I was out there checking the progress, I noticed that a doorway was not in the right place. I told him, and, of course, he begged to differ. After a discussion, he acquiesced- And after that, he called me “Spy”. Fond memories of your dad, Jeff and Ellen. He and mom, Dot Cory, kept an eye on each other for years.
Please accept our sincere condolences-
