“ i first met susan 8 years ago when i moved to adrian. she was actually snowblowing her own driveway(and she was in her 70s) i was walking my dog and i stopped to adjust the choke on her snowblower cuz it was running ruff and smoking. lol we became friends almost instantly. sue could be a bit difficult at times but you just had to know how to navigate thru it. that was sue. she had a good heart and she loved to chat. we would talk for hours sometimes. she had a great love for dogs and even cats too. she was feeding several wild cats for a few years and she even named all 4. she would love to sit and watch them sunning themselves on her back deck. i got to meet several other wonderful people thru my friendship with sue his son and his family. a few neighbors and her cousin(friend). i will miss sue very much. this neighborhood and my life will not be the same . may she rest in peace.
